Curbing Operator Distracted Driving

How to Register:

We are pleased to announce the launch of the Florida Department of Transportation's (Office of Freight, Logistics and Passengers Operations) new Learning Management System (LMS) Transportation Learning.

This new, online registration and training management system will provide Florida's public transportation professional a portal to manage their professional development.  Florida's public transportation professionals may set up a unique user id and password to register online for upcoming transit training courses, including e-learning courses.

Transportation Learning manages training for you by keeping an educational transcript of all new courses that you complete, and a retrievable record is maintained so you may access (with a user id and password) Certificates of Completion, Certificates of Participation, retrieve course materials, etc.  Transportation Learning will serve as the new method to register for new, online and classroom training courses.

Please follow the instructions below to setup a unique user id and password.  Once you have a user id and password, you can register for courses.
